DEAD PSYCHIC TELLS OF LIFE IN HEAVEN!

WHY DID I KILL MY KID?

Because I had 'parent burnout,' that's why!

By SUSAN JIMISON / Staff writer

Single mom Sharon Bright says she suffered "parent burnout" — and that's her lame excuse for covering her 7-year-old daughter's face with plastic wrap and lying on top of her until she suffocated!

In fact, her burnout problem was so severe that a few moments later she tried to kill her 4-year-old daughter, too, but had to give up when the child fought back.

"I thought if they're not around, I don't have to worry about them," explains Sharon, 36, who pleaded guilty to murder and now she is serving 50 years in the Indiana Women's Prison. "That's terrible, I know."

But the prosecutor, Michael Barnes, says the nursing supervisor wasn't burned out — she was just a cold-blooded woman who chose to murder her own kids rather than put up with the responsibilities they brought.

"Parental burnout — nonsense!" said Barnes. "She was a registered nurse making in excess of $30,000 a year.

"She knew of many, many options to solve this burnout problem that would be less drastic than suffocating her child to death," he said. "Everybody has some stress, but we don't kill our kids because of it."

According to police, the pudgy 215-pound mom said she'd been working seven days a week and worrying herself sick over her job, her money problems and her daughters, Jenny and Heather. She told investigators that she hadn't slept more than a few hours a day for weeks before the attack on the little girls.

One night as she paced the floor, the single mom thought of a solution to her exhaustion and worry.

She would snuff out the lives of her children.

"I just kind of stood there and looked at the kids and I just thought, there's got to be a better way," Sharon recalled. "I can't provide for them like I want to. And I just went and got the plastic wrap and put it over Jenn's nose and mouth and then she started fighting me. She kind of turned over and I just held it on there until she quit breathing.

"Then my thought was — well, if Jenny is in Heaven now, Heather should be there too. She was too feisty, started crying and fighting."

After struggling for a while with Heather, she decided to spare her. She called 911 and confessed her crime, showing no remorse, according to police.

After her conviction for her horrifying crime, Sharon was given 50 years in the state prison for women in Indiana.

Now she's a model prisoner, with no disciplinary problems and a good behavior. She spends her time teaching other inmates to read and thinking about Jenny and Heather, who now lives with her aunt in Salina, Kan.

"Every day I think about Jenny," she said. "I feel really terrible that I, as a mother, would do that to my own child. As for Heather, I don't know

WIFE KEPT IN A BOMB SHELTER FOR 30 YEARS

...after jealous hubby convinced her Russia had nuked the world!

By SCOTTY PAUL
Correspondent

An insanely jealous husband kept his unsuspecting wife entombed in an underground bomb shelter for an incredible 30 years — by convincing her the world above had been burned to a crisp by nuclear war.

Though Joseph Wickerman, 65, supposedly "sacrificed his health" to make trips outside their self-made prison, his terrified wife, Francine, 51, never went above ground because of her fear of radiation.

The couple's bizarre underground life-style came to light only after Joseph died of a heart attack and Francine left the shelter to find help.

"Her jealous husband devised a diabolical scheme to keep his pretty young wife away from other men, and she fell for it," said a sheriff's deputy. "He was more of a father figure than a husband because of the 14 years difference in their ages. She more or less did as she was told."

The couple went underground on Nov. 14, 1962, near Dickinson, N.D., after stocking their bomb shelter with tons of food, a generator and other necessities.

JEALOUS Joseph Wickerman persuaded his wife Francine that the world was in ruins and their shelter was their only hope.

tack by the Soviets was imminent," the deputy told The NEWS.

"They had absolutely no contact with the outside world for 30 years... no TV, no radio and no newspapers."

Jealous Joseph began suffering from fears that his much younger wife would betray him

Since she was raised in an orphanage with no known relatives and he was the only child of parents long since dead, it was easy for him to make his selfish plan a reality.

A week after they sealed themselves in the underground tomb, Joseph ventured outside for about an hour or so.

told deputies. "He said our worst fears had been realized. The Russians had dropped three nuclear bombs on the U.S.

"He closed the steel trap door atop our shelter and locked it. Then he said we should pray for those poor devils above who had scoffed at thoughts of a nuclear attack."

Joseph made several trips outside the shelter as the years passed and returned with stories of death and destruction in the world above. Occasionally, he brought back charred tree limbs, burnt cans of food and other "evidence" of the scorched earth above.

"He told her people had gone crazy from the effects of radiation and were living like wild animals," the deputy said. "He said disease was rampant and babies were being born with horrible deformities.

"She was so convinced of the holocaust above ground that she lost all desire to leave the shelter. She was terrified scheming hubby died of a bad heart she believed had been weakened by his exposure to radiation through the years, Francine waited three days before she had enough courage to leave the shelter for help.

"She was shocked and confused to find the world even better than when she last saw it 30 years ago," said the deputy. "She has been taken to a hospital for therapy and a checkup. The poor woman hasn't seen a doctor for half of her life."

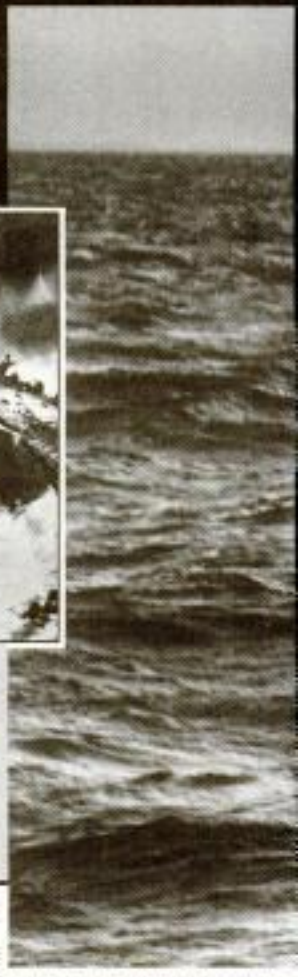
TITANIC

Horrified fishermen watch as ship's passengers jump overboard — AGAIN!



13 survivors picked up — still in the doomed ship's old life jackets!

The U.S. Navy rescued 13 new survivors of the Titanic disaster on December 14 when the rusting remains of the sunken vessel mysteriously bobbed to the surface of the North Atlantic — with hundreds of screaming passengers still aboard!

By NICK MANN

Special correspondent reporting from Newfoundland

That's the word from author and Titanic expert Philip Starnes, who quoted highly placed Navy insiders as having said that the survivors were wearing the same 80-year-old life jackets that were issued to passengers when the ship sank on its maiden voyage from England to New York in 1912.

Reports are sketchy. But Starnes says the Navy took the passengers to a research facility in Newfoundland for observation while investigators try to figure out what caused the dilapidated remains of the Titanic to surface — and how people who were thought to have drowned in 1912 could possibly be alive today.

"If you expect me to explain any of this, forget it — I can't," Starnes, who is widely considered to be one of the world's leading authorities on the Titanic, told reporters in New York City.

"The Navy's analysis of the situation is quite preliminary and short of telling you that these survivors came to the year 1992 through a time warp, I don't know what the hell is this point is that the rusting remains of the Titanic surfaced on the morning of December 14.

"And from what I understand, the scene was witnessed and reported by the crew of a Norwegian fishing vessel that just happened to be in the area when the Titanic came up.

"In their statements to the Navy, the fishermen said they saw hundreds of screaming passengers jump off the Titanic before it sank a few minutes after it surfaced," he continued.

"Most of the passengers who jumped ship weren't wearing life jackets and drowned almost immediately because the fishing vessel was experiencing engine problems and couldn't get close enough to rescue them.

"The captain had the presence of mind to radio for help, however, and a Navy research ship responded in time to save 13 passengers who were wearing authentic, Titanic-issue life jackets.

But no less an agency than the United States Navy says it happened and I, for one, believe the Navy."

Navy spokesmen acknowledged that one of their research vessels "engaged in a rescue mission about 400 miles west of Newfoundland on the morning of December 14, saving 13 lives."

But when they were pressed to confirm that the survivors had been passengers on the Titanic, the spokesmen terminated the interview saying: "There will be no such confirmation at this time."

Starnes himself quoted Navy sources and documents as saying that the survivors ranged in age from 21 to 62 and were carrying boarding passes and identification that place them on the Titanic in 1912.

The expert further noted that the survivors have no recollection of anything that has happened to them over the past 80 years.

He farther noted that the aged since they disappeared in 1912 and says they continue to insist that the date is April 14, 1912 — which is when the Titanic grazed an iceberg and sank on its maiden voyage.

The expert's sources didn't reveal the names of the men and women who were rescued. The Norwegian fishing vessel was not identified, either.

they aren't particularly thrilled with the idea that civilian experts are trying to get involved," said Starnes.

"For the time being the Navy is playing this extremely close to the vest," he added, "and I don't blame them."

HUMANS NO MATCH FOR CHESS-PLAYING CHIMPS!

PROUD trainer Trevor Ainslie

By JOE BERGER / Staff writer

Crafty circus animal trainer Trevor Ainslie taught his mischievous chimps Willie and Lillie to play chess — and the amazing apes are so good they've now won eight tournaments in a row!

"My chimps have gotta be the smartest little apes on earth, bar none," tickled Trevor told reporters.

"Everybody said I could never teach a monkey to play chess, but these rascals not only play, they're whipping everybody. People who laughed at the idea of a chess-playing chimp want Willie and Lillie banned from tournaments — because they were beating everyone's socks off."

The South African animal trainer turned his chimps into chess champs two years ago to win a bar bet with a buddy.

"My old friend and I were in a pub in Johannesburg, and he was chewing nails 'cause I'd whipped him three games in a row," recalled Trevor, 64.

"I was rubbing it in and said, 'Hell, I've got a trained ape that could beat you.'

"He laughed his head off and bet me 300 rand ($100) that no monkey could ever beat him. The circus was leaving town that night, so I said the next time through I'd put him up against a chimpanzee that would whip his butt.

"Of course, I didn't have a chimp that could whip his butt, but I knew I had a year to train one before we hit town again."

So the cagey trainer sat Willie down at a chess board and started teaching him the game.

"I used to be a pretty good chess player and I taught him everything I knew," said revved-up Trevor. "And ol' Willie, he picked it up faster than any human I ever saw.

"It was like the little guy was born to play chess, and after a couple of months, he was beating me nine times out of 10. He loved the game so much, it got so he'd raise a stink if I didn't play chess with him from morning till night.

"Finally, I had to teach his lady friend Lillie to play so he'd have somebody to compete with — and before I knew it, she was playing like a champ, too."

Clever Trevor started entering his chimps in local tournaments and soon the crafty critters were cleaning up. Since May, Lillie's lassoed two tourney titles and Willie's won six.

Now, devilish Trevor is challenging South Africa's champ to play his chimps — but so far it's no go. "I guess no stuffed-shirt chess player likes the idea of losing to a monkey," he said.

CHAMP CHIMPS: Willie, left, and Lillie have whipped every human chess player they have played.

HOW TO TALK YOUR WAY OUT OF A TRAFFIC TICKET!

It's an odds-on bet that at one time or another you've tried to wheedle out of a traffic ticket, and chances are you still wound up with a date in court.

But in his book How to Talk Your Way Out of a Traffic Ticket ($4.95, CCC Publications), cop-turned-author David W. Kelly offers some good advice on how you might be successful. Here are a few of his pointers:

By DICK DONOVAN
Staff writer

● Pull over as soon as you realize the flashing lights you see in your rearview mirror are for you. The officer has chosen a safe spot and will respect your prompt response.

● Stay inside your car unless the officer asks you to step out. Jumping out of your car could be dangerous and the officer might be led to believe you have something to hide.

● Turn off the radio, roll down your window and get out your license and registration. Keep your hands in sight or the officer might think you have a knife, a gun or a flamethrower. (It has happened!)

● Screaming and cursing or saying something cute like, "Why aren't you out catching some real criminals." This comment definitely won't make any brownie points in your favor.

● Don't lie or try to con the officer. He's heard every excuse in the book over and over again. Saying something like, "I was speeding to get gas before I ran out" isn't very original.

● Keep your cool. Try to show that you're really a nice person who made a mistake and knows it.

● Don't plead, burst into tears, say your aunt's best friend's husband is a police captain or hand over some cash with your license. Phony tears and bribery will only encourage a cop to start writing.

● Be dignified. If you're a female, be a lady. Don't bother hitching up your skirt or unbuttoning your blouse.

● And if he delivers a lecture, listen calmly. Remember . . . he's a cop and he's just doing his job.

SHARK EATS TEEN — AND HIS SAILBOAT!

Japanese tourist captures the boy's last horrifying moments on Earth!

By TONY CASSIDY
Correspondent

Scores of tourists watched in gut-wrenching horror as a teenage sailor went to his death in the slashing jaws of a great white shark — and the grisly scene was captured on film by a honeymooner from Japan!

Newlywed Numechi Ishikawa was photographing the boy as he sailed his catamaran off the beach of the South Pacific island of Fiji when the killer shark rose to the surface with its bared teeth flashing in the sun.

"My finger was just pushing the shutter button when the huge beast began its deadly attack," the 20-year-old bride told island police.

"It was a huge shark, at least 20 feet long. I could see it clearly because I was using a telephoto lens that made the scene appear to be only inches from my eyes.

"I remember hearing others on the beach screaming in horror as the shark snatched the boy in its jaws. But I was paralyzed. I couldn't move or utter a sound. All I could do was watch as the boy flailed the air trying to break free.

"The shark had grabbed the boy around the waist and was shaking its head violently from side to side. In seconds, the shark's teeth had cut right through the boy's body.

"I watched the shark eat the boy in two big gulps. Then it turned on the boat. It actually chewed the boat to pieces before it finally swam out to sea. It all happened in a minute, but it seemed like forever."

Numechi's husband, Akira, recovered pieces of the 16-foot sailboat which enabled police to identify its owner as 17-year-old Benji Bagaans, whose parents run a small restaurant catering to island locals.

"I had to wade through water swirling with blood, bits of flesh and chunks of fiberglass," Akira said. "That's all that was left of the boat — and the boy."

HOW TO ZAP PAINFUL HEADACHES WITHOUT USING PILLS!

You can zap your headache without drugs, using tried-and-true home remedies that are recommended by doctors and other health experts.

The do-it-yourself treatments — which are easy to do and cost nothing — are guaranteed to banish that punishing head-pounder in minutes. And they help you avoid dependency on pain relievers, which can lead to stomach bleeding, iron deficiency or ulcers.

Of course, if you have recurring headaches or unusual, persistent pains in the head, you should see a doctor. But for occasional discomfort, here are some tips for relief:

- Brown-bag treatment: Breathing into a paper bag can stop migraines before they take over, according to Dr. Selwyn Dexter, author of an article on migraines in the British Medical Journal. Re-using the carbon dioxide saturated air for about 15 minutes or so will reduce or eliminate your headache.
- Food treatment: Some headaches are caused by hunger and can be banished by eating a high-protein snack, like a piece of cheese or a roast beef sandwich. Avoid sugary foods, as they will cause your blood sugar to skyrocket and then drop quickly, bringing back the headache.
- Miracle massage treatment: Experts swear by foot massage as an excellent technique for banishing the tension headache. Massaging the lower part of the big toe and the area on the foot beneath all the toes will usually release tension in the neck. Rubbing each toe between the fingers will help you locate areas in need of massage. When you've managed to locate them, massage the sore places until all tenderness is gone.
- Hairbrush care: Using a stiff-bristled brush, banish your tension headache by brushing in small circular strokes, covering about a half-inch of scalp at a time. Pay special attention to the area in front of the ears, a place where tension concentrates.

TWO-YEAR-OLD LOSES $1 MILLION JOB — BECAUSE HE SMOKES CIGARS!

TASTE-TESTER Paulo Lamala smokes three cigars a day and it might cost him $1 million!

By KRISTIN MARIS / Correspondent

Two-year-old Paulo Lamala has been fired from his $1 million-a-year job as the world's top baby food taster — because he is addicted to cigars!

The tot was fired as chief taste-tester by Ninos Royale baby food company. "Smoking destroys the taste buds, so we can no longer employ Paulo," a company official said.

But doting parents Angela and Montero Lamala of Madrid, Spain, are taking the company to court over the firing. "If we refuse Paulo his cigars, he'll stop eating completely," his furious mom said.

Ninos Royale conducted a search all over Europe to find the top taste-tester for baby food. The company had more than 8,000 children try out for the job.

"When my son likes the food, he will lick and smack his lips and make animal-like noises," said Mrs. Lamala.

"When he doesn't like what's dished up, he'll spew it all over the room. If he is lukewarm about some food, he'll try to get you to eat it.

"Whatever he likes always sells well," she said. "He has helped that company make many important decisions."

Everyone was happy with the deal until Paulo tried his first cigar four months ago — and was quickly smoking three cigars a day.

"The little guy picked it up from me," said Mr. Lamala, who smokes 12 a day. "He wants to be like his dad, and I'm proud of that."

When the company bosses learned of Paulo's three-stogie-a-day habit, they threw a fit and fired the youngster.

"Everyone knows smoking affects your sense of taste," a company official said. "Plus, a cigar-smoking baby doesn't fit the image this company wants to portray.

"We devote a great deal of money to this new taste-tester's position," the official said. "We can't afford to let this pampered brat ruin our company."

The Lamalas, meanwhile, are ready for a court fight. "Nowhere in the legal papers does it say Paulo is not allowed to smoke," said Montero. "It's not for them to decide what our son can do on his own time."

Horse racing is the deadliest sport

If you think boxing is the deadliest sport in the world, you're not even in the ball park. The leading killer is horse racing!

The "Sport of Kings" accounts for 12.8 deaths per 1,000 participants while boxing ranks a distant eighth place with a scant 0.13 fatal-ing comes in a close second to horse racing with 12.3 deaths, followed by bang

5.1, and scuba diving put 1.1 per 1,000 in their graves.

Despite the figures, many American physicians have sought a ban on boxing, while not mounting any campaign against horse racing.

The REAL reason behind the royal breakup!

TERRIFIED Princess Di knew it was all over when Prince Charles held a seance to talk with his dead uncle.

Forget the other lovers — the real reason Princess Diana split from Prince Charles is that the jug-eared heir to the throne became obsessed with the occult!

Diana, the world's most admired woman, got sick and tired of Charlie seeking seances with his dead great-uncle and talking to his plants. The end came when Di penned this killer note to her estranged hubby: "The roses are dead, the violets all shrunk, I'm sending you both, because you're a skunk!"

"Di has always had a secret fear of the supernatural and the unknown," says an old girlfriend of the princess, who was present when Di wrote this stinging rebuke.

"It got too ridiculous when Charles began to talk more to the plant life than he did his own wife," says the old friend. The princess was also distressed by her husband's constant quest to contact his murdered great-uncle, Lord Mountbatten.

Spooky seances and Ouija boards scared Diana stiff. "Up to the time of her marriage, she wouldn't go to bed without leaving a dim light on," says her pal. "Charles told Di that he sometimes feels his great-uncle's presence almost as a tangible thing. He may think of Lord Mountbatten as a kind of benevolent guardian angel, but to Di there is only one kind of ghost — the horror kind."

Yeeaahh! I'm outta here! said the world's most admired woman.

LOST TRIBE OF DINOSAUR PEOPLE FOUND IN AFRICA!

Discovery rocks scientific world!

Spiked humans are cousins to monster reptiles

ABOVE, spikes protrude from the backs of these members of the dinosaur tribe. At left, the monster reptiles believed to be distant relatives of the Stone Age people.

By TONY CASSIDY / Correspondent

A team of French scientists has made what is being hailed as the most startling discovery in modern history — it found a tribe of dinosaur people living in the jungles of Africa!

Incredibly, the savages, who speak in grunts and howls, have bone-like spines protruding from their backs, much like the ridges of dinosaurs and even a few present-day reptiles.

"The amazing thing is that the spines, some of them up to 14 inches long, actually grow out of their backs," declared Dr. Jeanne Latan, leader of the research expedition.

"Even the tribal children have spines.

"Their growths may be caused by some sort of genetic mutation, or these people have actually evolved from dinosaurs.

"Not only have we found a unique species of humans who appear to have evolved from prehistoric reptiles, but the existence of the tribe is overwhelming evidence that dinosaurs did not vanish from exist on the African continent."

Dr. Latan, a professor of botany at the University of Paris, whose team lived among the dinosaur people for eight weeks, announced the amazing discovery at a news conference in Kinshasa, Zaire.

However, she refused to pinpoint the tribe's location other than to say their village is in a dense jungle area near the Tshuapa River, about 300 miles southwest of Zaire's famed Stanley Falls.

"The last thing we want is to have hordes of scientists and reporters rushing to the village," she explained.

"These are truly prehistoric people in every sense of the word. We must protect them from the outside world.

"A small team of experts in appropriate fields of science will be allowed into the area for a study taking no longer than absolutely necessary. We must do nothing to upset their way of life."

Thousands of tax$$$ spent on loony-toons projects!

Fruitcake professors are robbing us blind!

I'm madder than a senator with an exploding cigar that dimwit bureaucrats in Washington are still blowing our hard-earned tax dollars on all those stupid projects that egg-heads, government scientists and nutty professors dream up.

I love America, but when some bloomin' idiot can pick 50,000 bucks from Uncle Sam's pockets to find out if American and Mexican leopard frogs are sexually compatible, President Clinton ought to blow his stack and fire all the twits involved with something so stupid!

Let's face it, you and I work too damn hard for our money to have it spent on such things as:

- $47,000 to find out if pregnant fleas can hop as far as non-pregnant fleas.
- $37,000 to learn how many eyelashes the average person loses in one day.
- $71,000 to find out whether blonde or brunette prostitutes attract more customers.
- $21,743 to figure out why kids in kindergarten like to fingerpaint.
- $53,000 to find out if that raw sushi fish they peddle in fancy Japanese restaurants will make you sick. (Damn right, it will. I could've told 'em that for free, for crying out loud.)
- $145,000 to learn why old folks like to move down to Florida after they retire. (Because it's sunny there, stupid!)
- $13,650 to find out if brats who pitch temper tantrums should be spanked or left alone. (Slap the tar out of them, I say.)
- $120,000 to study how 130 different languages describe color. (Good God Almighty! That makes me see red!)
- $204,908 for a researcher to do a telephone survey to find out if telephone surveys work.
- $48,337 to pay for a film script on the history of the American Communist Party. (This little budget item will make TAXPAYERS see red!) When these mincing little liberal bureaucrats spend my money like this I get pig-biting mad!

IT'S ENOUGH TO make you croak! Frogs will get $50,000 of fun and frolic — at taxpayers' expense — when wacko scientists mate them with Mexican frogs!

It's like all this Save the Whales and Save the Manatee crap.

I've never even seen a whale, so what do I care if they're killed off for blubber and machine oil? I can always see the overgrown things splashing around on TV and in movies like Moby Dick.

And as far as manatees go, I didn't even know that those ugly 500-pound blobs existed until some weepy, bearded folk singer came on the tube blubbering over the stupid things. Now Ol' Ed ain't going to lose a wink of sleep over whether the last manatee has bought the farm or not. In fact, they ought to sell manatee burgers!

And I sure as hell don't want my tax money wasted on poking into the sex life of some dumb fish. Let 'em end up in cat food or the frying pan where they belong.

Our tax bucks ought to go for helicopters and state-of-the-art combat boots and helmets for the brave boys in our

Change the color of your dinner plates — & lose weight!

You can easily lose weight simply by using the right color dinner plates, experts say.

"Some dish colors increase your appetite and make you eat more, while others decrease your appetite," declared Maria Simonson, a top weight-loss expert. Hot colors such as reds, oranges or yellows stimulate your nervous system and appetite and cause you to eat too much, she explained. "Cool colors — blues, greens — can slow your system down, keeping your appetite in check," said Simonson.

Other colors that can depress your appetite and help you lose weight are pastel shades such as, pale yellow, pale pink, green and gray, brown or white, Simonson said.

The expert bases her conclusions on color experiments she conducted with more than 400 people.

Simonson described the effects of color on appetite in her book The Complete University Medical Diet.

Jack Haberstroh, a communications expert, agreed.

"Certain dish colors like red and orange increase your appetite, while other colors like light green and blue can depress your hunger and reduce your appetite," he said.

TEEN WHO BLEW AWAY HIS FAMILY GOES FREE!

He calmly shot his mom and little sister — then ambushed his dad in the driveway!

KILLER TEEN Brandon Carnell was released from reform school only five years after he gunned down his entire family.

By JACK ALEXANDER
Staff writer

A brutal teenage killer who slaughtered his mom, dad and little sister during a bloody rampage has been set free — because of a stupid loophole in the law.

Mass murderer Brandon Carnell plans to attend college or find a job after serving less than five years at a boy's training school in Whitmore Lake, Mich.

Carnell was not quite 15 in 1988 when he methodically blew his family away with a shotgun because they "picked" on him. He was convicted as a juvenile and locked behind bars until his 19th birthday under Michigan state law that existed at the time.

"Brandon must be released at age 19 no matter how reprehensible the crime," said Judge Sandra Silver. "I don't think the court has any choice."

Prosecutor Edward Cibor had argued at a hearing before the judge that the young killer should stay behind bars until he is 21 under a new state law passed since Carnell's horrible crime.

The triple murder that sent shock waves across rural Oakland County occurred on the evening of June 22, 1988. Carnell had made a decision to wipe out his parents and 11-year-old sister.

Coldhearted Carnell calmly gunned down his mother, Carol, 36, and sister, Candace, in the kitchen of their modest

HERO ROOSTER SAVES DROWNING 3-YEAR-OLD BOY!

By CLAUDE LAURENT
Correspondent

Terrified 3-year-old Louie Corot fell into a pond in his backyard and nearly drowned before being rescued from the icy water — by his huge pet rooster, Roy!

"Everybody knows how much chickens hate water, but that big rooster jumped right in and dragged my boy all the way to shore," said the tot's grateful mom Marie.

LUCKY Louie Corot, 3, after he was rescued by his pet.

"Roy and Louie are great friends and that big rooster follows little Louie everywhere.

"Then when my son got in trouble, Roy just wasn't about to let his little buddy die."

The touching tale began one afternoon when fun-loving Louie slipped away from his parents and headed for a pond near their farm home outside Dijon, France — with his 18-pound rooster right on his tail.

The boy climbed onto a log at the edge of the water and soon found himself drifting 40 feet from shore.

"Just as I looked out my window, I saw the boy topple off the log and go under the water," recalled wheelchair-bound neighbor Nicole Pelletier, 61.

"I grabbed the phone to call tic. And then I saw that rooster jump into the water and flap and kick his way out to where Louie was going down for the fourth or fifth time.

"The rooster grabbed little Louie's shirt and pulled him all the way to shore and up onto couldn't believe what I'd just seen."

After dragging limp Louie to safety, the cock-a-doodle dandy ran 100 yards to the front of the house where the boy's unsuspecting parents were painting a porch.

"That bird was wringing wet and raising a ruckus, and that's when it dawned on us that Louie wasn't where he was supposed to be," said the boy's dad Maurice.

"Roy seemed to insist we follow him, and when he led us to the pond we saw Louie lying there, barely breathing.

"I started mouth-to-mouth resuscitation while my wife ran to phone an ambulance.

"They told us at the hospital that our baby came within minutes, possibly seconds, of dying or suffering brain damage. It was a very close call."

But lucky Louie has fully recovered from his hair-raising ordeal and is back romping around the farm — with the heroic rooster tagging along behind him.

"I never thought I'd find myself loving a rooster," said mother Marie.

"But anything Roy wants, Roy's going to get. And I think he knows, he's done something special.

"Ever since Roy pulled Louie from that pond, he's

New vitamin-mineral cocktail reverses aging!

A combination of vitamin E and the mineral selenium dramatically improves the physical and mental health of elderly people, a recent study shows.

"After 12 months on the combination, senior citizens were less depressed, had less anxiety, more alertness, more interest in life, less fatigue, better appetite and could care for themselves better," said Dr. Matti Tolonen of Finland's University of Helsinki.

The study enlisted 30 male and female subjects ranging in age from 50 to 92 years.

All were similar in terms of diseases, medications, diet and educational background.

They were broken into two groups of 15. One group received a daily dose of 400 milligrams of vitamin E and 1,765 micrograms of selenium, while the other group received placebos (inactive substances).

The study lasted for 12 months, with the patients being monitored every two months.

Said Dr. Tolonen: "The patients receiving the vitamin E and selenium responded positively and started exhibiting improvement within the very first two months of supplementation.

"They did not suffer from any adverse side effects."

Dr. Tolonen and a co-author of the study — Dr. Markku Halme — believe that the vitamin E-selenium combination affects the body's immune system and acts against disease and the aging process.

Dr. Tolonen concluded: "While our study focused on geriatric patients, individuals of all ages can benefit from vitamin E and selenium in combination."

The researchers advised checking with your doctor before starting any similar vitamin-mineral program of your own.

Dear Furious in Willisville: I didn't call your husband a shiftless skunk because he's illiterate. I called him a shiftless skunk because he doesn't have the guts to do anything about it!

Dear Stinky in Oak Grove: If you're too fat to get in the bathtub do the next best thing — drench yourself in perfume!

Dear Outraged in East Lyme: Butthead really is an ugly word — but in your case it fits!

Dear Humiliated in Bickley: Sit on a broomstick, jerk!

Dear Curious in Rockford: I don't care what you say — Weekly World News artist Dick Kulpa is ALL man!

Dear Secretary in Milton: Hookers work long hours, too. But they're still hookers!

Dear Confused in Culver: Now why do you think you found panty hose in your husband's briefcase?

Dear Dotti: My boss invited me to dinner the other night and you're not going to believe what happened after I got to her house.

When we were sitting down to eat, a pair of roaches crawled out from under the roast beef. Instead of apologizing, my neighbor flicked the bugs off the table with her finger and proceeded to serve me a big helping of beef. I wanted to vomit but I forced myself to eat. What would you have done? — Revolted in Marietta

Dear Revolted: If somebody served me "roach food" I'd spit in her face. Cockroaches carry diseases, fool. And you were stupid to eat!

You're crazy as hell to say all truckers are terrorists!

Dear Dotti: A few weeks ago you said truck drivers are terrorists because they tailgate cars and threaten lives. Two of my close relatives drive 18-wheelers and they say truckers are the best drivers on the road. They say people in cars cause problems because they pull out in front of trucks. Get your facts straight before you shoot off your stupid mouth! — Angry in Birmingham

Dear Angry: What did you expect your truck-driving relatives to say: "Dotti's right — we terrorize anybody who gets in our way?" Get with it, fool. They're covering their butts and anybody with a brain in his head knows it!

I hate seeing my neighbor's 19-year-old son naked!

Dear Dotti: I was having coffee with a neighbor recently when her 19-year-old son waltzed into the kitchen stark naked! Being the lady that I am, I tried not to stare. But his mother actually commented on how handsome he looked. I was floored, Dotti. Comment, please. — Stunned in Berryville

Dear Stunned: When creeps pull stunts like that you've got to think fast. Since most men are extremely sensitive about their masculinity, I would have told the kid: "How disappointing. You look 'bigger' in clothes!" On my way out the door I would have told the mother: "Thanks for the coffee, acorn brain. Don't ever call me again!"

My husband beats me every day — and won't say why!

Dear Dotti: My husband slaps or slugs me every day and won't even tell me why. I think about leaving him but he's sensitive and I don't want to hurt him. Help! — Hurting in Concord

Dear Hurting: If I've told you pinheads once, I've told you a thousand times: Women who stay with men who beat them deserve what they get!

You're the greatest, Dotti, keep up the fantastic work!

Dear Dotti: I've been reading your column for 25 years and it keeps getting better all the time. Thanks for all the great advice, Dotti. I'm your lifelong fan. — C.C. in Spartanburg

Dear C.C.: I hate to tell you this, skunk breath, but Weekly World News didn't even exist 25 years ago. The first edition was published in 1979 and the editors weren't lucky enough to get me on the staff until 1986!

Dotti will answer your letters — and tell it like it is. Just write to her, c/o Weekly World News, 600 South East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462.

Ask Serena

Why do I see a skeleton when I look in my mirror?

Dear Serena: Whenever I look in a mirror I don't see myself, I see a hideous skeleton staring me in the face.

This has been the case ever since my mother died last June. And I probably don't have to tell you that this scares me to death. Please tell me what's going on, Serena. At the very least, tell me how to get the skeleton out of my mirrors. — Terrified in Salt Lake City

Dear Terrified: You have neglected the spiritual side of your life for many years now and the skeleton you see signifies the fact that, spiritually speaking, you have died. I strongly advise you to start praying and meditating daily. Open your heart to the wonders of life, and the skeleton will vanish.

Dear Serena: I've been separated for over a year now and, as you probably know, I'd like to get back together with my husband. I feel that he would like to start over again, too. But other for weeks on end. Will you look into your crystal ball and see if we will get back together? — Anxious in Wilmington

Dear Anxious: My crystal ball reveals that you and your husband will patch up your differences and get back together on February 18. I see great happiness — and four beautiful children — in your future!

Dear Serena: I lost my eyeglasses a couple of weeks ago and can't see more than new pair. Please help me find them. — Blind in Baton Rouge

Dear Blind: The eyeglasses you lost are behind the console television in your living room. You'll find them beside two other sets of glasses, the ones you lost in 1986 and 1989!

ELIZABETH Mortensen will speak at colleges coast-to-coast in an all-out effort to bring a very much alive John F. Kennedy out of hiding

By BILL SNEAD / Special correspondent

A woman who claims to be th dent John Kennedy and actress barked on a dramatic crusade to b father out of hiding once and for all!

Elizabeth Jeane Mortensen, 30, is planning a speaking tour of college campuses coast-to-coast in which she will tell her life story in the hope that JFK will catch wind of her crusade and go public for the first time since he faked his death in 1963.

As the Weekly World News and other major newspapers have reported in a series of stories since 1990, there is a mountain of evidence to suggest that Kennedy survived the attempt on his life in Dallas and fled to Europe to avoid yet another assassination attempt.

Dr. Sonya Faron, who claims to have been Kennedy's personal physician from 1964 to 1989, has publicly stated that the former president suffered massive and crippling head injuries when he was shot in Dallas but is still alive today.

Kennedy has also been photographed peering from a White House window and visiting his own "grave" at Arlington National Cemetery within the past two years.

Oddly enough, it was the mere suggestion that JFK is alive that prompted Miss Mortensen to break her lifelong silence and name the

HOW TO COLLECT $$$ FROM UNCLE SAM

Cash In On Government Giveaway Programs

A NEW BOOK WRITTEN BY A former Federal investigator tells how every American can collect their share of the $250 billion that will be handed out this year by Uncle Sam. The book explains how to collect social security before retirement, small business loans, income supplements, education benefits, farm loans, unemployment, job training, even welfare and food stamps. Here are just a few facts covered:

- How 39 million Americans collect monthly benefit checks from one program alone.
- How almost 3 million children get monthly benefit checks.
- How eligible couples collect up to $1100 a month to supplement the family income.
- How to qualify for disability pensions (over 3.5 million collecting but thousands more eligible).
- How to know when to quit work and start collecting monthly retirement benefits.
- How you may be cheating yourself out of cash benefits rightfully due you.
- How to collect unemployment benefits even if you quit your job or were fired.
- How to get free legal assistance.
- How to get a good-paying federal job.
- How to get a $500,000 loan to start your own business. (It's simple and the book tells you exactly how to do it).
- How to collect a $250,000 loan to buy a farm or ranch, including livestock and equipment.
- How to collect a $27,000 loan for a mobile home, including lot.
- How to collect a $15,000 loan for home improvements.
- How to collect over $400 a month to attend college, trade school or get on-the-job training.
- How to get free medical coverage, including eye glasses and dental care.
- How to collect hundreds of dollars a month to pay your apartment rent, including utilities.
- How to get up to a $100,000 small business loan, even if you are poor and unemployed.
- How to obtain thousands of dollars in free Federal services.

With the help of this book, many families are now living more comfortably.

Although the book How To Collect Big Dollars From Uncle Sam could mean thousands of dollars to you, it is being offered at only $12.95 (plus $3 postage & handling).

Would-be bride's shocking admission . . .

'I've been jilted at the altar 9 times'

By JOY BANNING
Correspondent

Ill-fated Ilja Ler says she's given up her plans to marry after being jilted at the altar nine times — by eight different lovers!

The would-be bride, a teacher in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, says the repeated humiliation has robbed her of all desire to walk down the aisle again.

"I'm obviously not fated to be someone's wife," the heartbroken 36-year-old woman explained. "I have been made the butt of jokes and an object of pity. But I still maintain my pride. I could have made a husband happy if given the chance. But I'm not going to attempt marriage again."

Ilja's tragic marriage bids began when she was 19, according to relatives quoted in the Bratislava Workers Weekly newspaper. Her family and friends gathered in the church for the Catholic ceremony and waited for more than two hours for the groom — who never showed up.

"He was just a youngster of 18 and most of us figured he got cold feet," said her uncle, Rudolf Husak. "But Ilja was inconsolable for months afterward."

On the rebound from the first wedding washout, Miss Ler became engaged again, Husak said. But, incredibly, the prospective groom dumped her . . . on the day before the wedding.

"She went away for two years to work in Prague," Husak said. "She wanted to avoid the humiliation, the gossip and the pity. But she was so desperate to get married it effected her good sense where men were concerned."

Twice in Prague, Husak said, Ilja made plans to marry the registrar's office and once in a small wedding chapel. Then her first fiance, Leopold Simon, apologized for his betrayal, begged her forgiveness and proposed again.

HEARTBROKEN: "I've been made the butt of jokes," says would-be bride Ilja Ler.

"The foolish girl accepted the apology and returned here to Bratislava," the uncle said. "Plans were made for an elaborate wedding and she was so happy . . . even joking about the first time Leopold jilted her. "But when the big moment came, Leopold said he couldn't go through with it. He jilted her again."

The shattered bad-luck bride was 28 when Leopold dumped her that second time. After that, she made plans for four more marriages. But, each time, the groom backed off and cut out.

The latest . . . and apparently last . . . wedding was scheduled for August, in the home of her parents. But, as before, Ilja's big day ended in heartbreak. "She's in seclusion," Husak said. "She's had it with men and marriage. She says she will never think of

DEAD PSYCHIC DESCRIBES HER LIFE IN HEAVEN

'There really are streets of gold!'

Fifty scientists listened in shock and disbelief as the spirit of a dead psychic appeared at a scientific conference in Brussels, Belgium, and told of her life in heaven!

French seer Sylvia Menard reportedly appeared before the experts as a shimmering white specter.

By JAKE CRUMP
Special correspondent

In a voice that witnesses described as being "absolutely otherworldly," she called the afterlife "a great shining city of perfect peace and contentment — that really does have streets of gold."

"It was the most dramatic display of paranormal phenomenon I have ever witnessed," Dr. Flemming Sorensen, the Danish psychologist, told reporters.

And no less a figure than Norman Kruger, the famed German physicist, said: "The demonstration has altered my view of life and the afterlife forever."

Paranormal expert Marc Lignel organized the Brussels conference after the death of the 50-year-old psychic on November 2. He said that the experiment to attempt to communicate with her from beyond the grave was something that they had discussed when she was diagnosed as having inoperable cancer late last spring.

"Sylvia's psychic abilities were unequalled, so we felt like she would be able to communicate from beyond the grave," said the expert. "Of course, we never imagined anything like this. Sylvia spent almost four minutes in the auditorium describing heaven."

The exhibition was off-limits to reporters but Lignel quoted the psychic as having said that heaven "is a place of perfect peace where all people go when they die, regardless of what their behavior on Earth."

"There is a God," she continued, "and He is everything true believers think He is. Don't be afraid to die because there is nothing but happiness here.

"It is a glorious place of loving and peace, where the minds and souls of everyone and everything are no longer separate. In this great shining city with streets of gold, all entities are one."

Before Miss Menard's shimmering spirit vanished into thin air, it reportedly stated that "Jesus Christ will return to Earth very soon."

Lignel said: "Sylvia has completed her mission and will not return to us again. To my way of thinking she doesn't have to. She has given hope and comfort to us all."

Kids' letters to NASA

Kids are starry-eyed in their fascination with outer space and they send more than 10,000 letters to NASA every month — many of them hilarious. Here's a selection from the NASA mailbox:

Dear Space Center: I do not know much about space. So will you send me a free space center? Love, Jean.

Dear NASA, I am doing a Science fair project in school and I would like to know, if you would send me a rocket that the engine of it does not work and some information about it, if you would please send it before December 19. . .

P.S. I will send it back working, when I am finished. Thank you. James.

Dear JFK Space Center, I am 12 years old and I would like to be an astronaut. So please send me some information on spaceships and so forth because I would like to know what I am up against.* (Unsigned)

Dear NASA, Would you please consider me to be one of your passenger on your flight of space Shuttle. Please give me an answer yes or no because I hope I am not wasting a good 29 cents when I could get some gum. Thank you. Chris.

P.S. You NOW Kno how important to me and my name is not in lights in hollywood like some you would send up but I don't care, I hope I'm one of them.

Dear Sir I am a fourth grade student. I am studying about space. Can you send me information. Did you find any marshons. If you did what planet was it. Thank you. Larry.

POLL: Spanking still tops with parents!

The vast majority of American parents regularly spank their children and child-care experts say the practice is ruining our kids.

The researchers like nothing better than to point out that physical punishment is old-fashioned, crude and possibly even damaging to a kid's mental and emotional health.

And while many parents pay lip service to the newfangled psychology, surveys show most resort to the hand, belt, shoe, switch or hairbrush to make their children toe the line.

Just last year, experts polled 186 parents with children from 5 to 8 and found that a whopping 88 percent spanked their youngsters.

In a massive six-year survey of more than 9,000 college students between the ages of 18 and 20, Dr. John Knutson found that better than 80 percent were raised by parents who whupped them when they misbehaved.

Knutson, however, is convinced that spanking "is a seductively simple strategy for training children."

Dr. Kenneth Kay, a family therapist is even tougher on spanking than that: "Winning your children's respect means convincing them to behave as civilized human beings without yourself behaving like a brute."

QUACK DOC'S TAPEWORM DIET REALLY WORKS . . . TOO WELL!

What was billed as the ultimate diet pill helped hundreds of fat people lose a ton of weight — but almost killed them in the process.

Police in Milan, Italy, allege that bogus doctor Franco Rizzuto packed his so-called Magic Diet capsules with powdered gelatin and tapeworm eggs that hatched and attached themselves to the dieters' intestines.

"He told his clients that they had to take only one pill to lose all the weight they wanted effortlessly, and that much was true," said Police Inspector Carlo Rognio.

SOPHIA at 220 lbs.

"Everything that went into their stomachs was absorbed by the tapeworms — some of which grew to lengths of 20 feet before the dieters had to be hospitalized for malnutrition."

Sofia Franchini, 28, told reporters that she had been fat all her life and was willing to try anything to shed some pounds.

But three months after taking one of Rizzuto's tapeworm pills, she was desperately trying to put on weight because she was nothing but skin and bones.

"I was thrilled to death when my weight fell from 220 to 115 pounds," she said. "I looked good and I felt pretty good, too. But the more I ate the more weight I lost.

"Pretty soon I looked like a walking skeleton even though I was eating all the time — I went down to 45 pounds!"

Two-ton Mario Leonelli, 42, had a similar experience. And like Miss Franchini, he wound up in the hospital, seriously malnourished and in pain.

"If you've ever seen a puppy with a bad case of worms then you'll have some idea what I looked like," said the computer programmer. "My abdomen was distended and I had horrible pains from gas.

"My doctor immediately recognized that I was suffering from a tapeworm infection. After some questioning we traced it to the diet pill I took."

Newspapers were alerted to the problem and published stories on the scam. Eventually, several hundred people came forward for treatment and blamed their problems on Rizzuto's pills.

He was later arrested on several charges, including fraud and endangering the public health.

"We urge overweight people to see their doctors or at least follow one of the many sensible diets that have been developed by experts," said Luigi Tonini of the ministry of health.

"There is not and never will be a

LIFE-STUDY FELLOWSHIP

GIANT HOROSCOPE

For the week of
Mon., Jan. 18 — Sun., Jan. 24

By DONNIE BROWN, ASTROLOGER TO THE STARS

ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 19

Be extravagant!

Spend some money! This is the week to go for that major purchase you've been putting off.

It's the season to share. Give a helping hand to those less fortunate than yourself.

Your good deeds will come back to bless you.

Don't allow yourself to be burdened with chores. Spend time with friends or just relax by yourself.

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20

Answer the phone!

Someone from your past is trying to reach you. You're going to be repaid in a major way for a long-ago kindness.

Your patience will be put on the line by a family member.

Keep your temper even though you're steaming. Be the nice guy! You won't regret it.

Romance isn't dead! You're being eyed in a very suggestive way!

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

Break the ice!

It's up to you to get things going at a social affair.

Before you know it everyone will be having the time of their lives — thanks to you.

Take quick advantage of a surprise opportunity to make extra cash. Earn it, then spend it!

Ignore a jerk who tries to start something. Jealousy, because you're looking so good, is behind it.

CANCER
June 21-July 22

Stop, look and listen!

Something you won't care for is brewing behind the scenes.

Act fast, you can put a stop to it.

Keep your nose to the grindstone. Don't let others entice you away to play.

You can achieve exactly what you want if you keep plugging away.

Watch TV. Something you see will lead you to a clever way to impress a special someone.

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

Have a fling!

It's just what the doctor ordered. Make every effort to have a blast.

Concentrate on how to fill your pockets. You have all that's needed to make loads of money.

Put a recent setback behind you.

Expect problems to disappear as things start to look up by the end of the week.

Your generosity makes a special someone glow with love.

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Be alert!

Right in the middle of an up and down week, a chance to grab some cash lands in your lap.

Spend it on something you've wanted for a long time.

Give a friend a hand, but be careful how much you promise.

Don't commit yourself to delivering the moon!

A special someone tells you what you want to hear. Wow!

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22

Trust your feelings!

The confidence that's flooding you has not been misplaced.

Your plan is a good one. It'll work out as you anticipated.

Someone's got a crush on you. If you miss out on this harmless opportunity for a little flirtation, you'll regret it!

You can find a quick solution to a situation that's been bugging you. Don't let it drag on any longer.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21

You can do it!

Bring a smile to someone who has the blues. It'll make you feel better, too.

Let the chores sit while you work at creative projects.

Your cleverness will bring you extra spending money.

Stop running away from love. Stand still! You'll love it when romance catches up to you.

Spend time with your old friends.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Keep up the good work!

You're feeling overworked and for good reason. Taking on an extra load pays off, though.

Your efforts are rewarded with cash. Higher-ups are happy with your industriousness.

Buy something new. If that doesn't perk up your spirits, buy something antique!

You find out a loved one loves to pamper you. Enjoy!

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Let the good times roll!

It's your turn to party! Put workday projects on the back burner until you're partied out.

Something clever you've done brings you some bucks.

Spend this cash just as you please!

Someone you're not aware of yet thinks you're pretty wonderful.

This person wants to change the course of your romantic life!

If your birthday is this week . . .

Mon., Jan. 18 — Sun., Jan. 24

Look forward to the most exciting year of your life!

Good luck is sitting on your shoulder.

You can do anything you want. Higher-ups always give you the "go" sign.

Something creative you've been working on brings you the recognition — and the recompense — you deserve.

Romance and cash come your way

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Leave nothing to chance!

Rely on your natural talent to steer you toward the riches you deserve — loads of money is up for grabs this week!

Little problems have you pulling your hair for no reason.

Do your best to just ignore them.

A certain someone is ready to

PISCES
Feb. 19-Mar. 20

Get an early start!

Put in some evening hours making plans for a new project.

Man who died in shower found 6 months later — with the water STILL running!

By BILL JENKINS / Special correspondent

A man who died in the shower stayed there until cops found him crumpled in a heap under the running water — six mind-blowing months later!

'He looked like a big, blue prune,' say police

"I don't mean to sound disrespectful, but the man looked like a big blue prune," Police Lt. Raymond Jubert told newsmen in Toulouse, France.

"We don't suspect foul play because he had a history of heart problems and almost certainly had a heart attack.

"If the utility company hadn't noticed that his water and gas bills were unpaid and sky-high, we never would have found him. His body ultimately would have decomposed completely and washed down the shower drain."

The bizarre death of 49-year-old Bernard Seydel came as a shock to his neighbors, who noted that he traveled extensively and was often out of town.

"His car was in the driveway, but it never dawned on me that he could be in his house dead," said Martha Dejour, who lives next door. "It gives me the creeps just to think about it. I didn't even see the body and I'm still having terrible nightmares about it."

Lt. Jubert agreed that Seydel's body was "a ghastly sight."

"There was a large hole in the chest where the water from the shower was hitting it, and his flesh was grayish-blue and shriveled all over," he said.

"It's definitely not something I like to think about — but it's something I'll never forget."

Police in Toulouse said the circumstances surrounding Seydel's death were the strangest they had ever seen. Running a distant second was the case of a woman who slipped and fell while mopping her kitchen floor — and drowned in a bucket of soapy water.

ARMLESS WOMAN BOWLS PERFECT 300 GAME — WITH HER FEET!

By RICK TRACY / Correspondent

An amazing woman with no arms has shocked the sports world by bowling a perfect 300 game — with her feet.

Horribly crippled Vera DeMarco accomplished the fantastic feat while bowling with friends at a bowling alley in Berlin, Germany.

Amazing! She rolls 12 strikes in a row!

"I've been bowling since I was a teenager in the junior leagues and never even came close to a perfect game," said stunned Vera, 42, who lost both of her arms in a near fatal auto accident two years ago near Hamburg.

She spent eight months in a hospital and has undergone strenuous exercise and therapy to strenghten the muscles in the rest of her body, especially her legs.

An avid bowler before her life-threatening accident, determined Vera decided to strengthen her leg muscles by bowling five games a day, five days a week.

A native New Yorker, Vera was working as a secretary for the military in Germany when her car rounded a curve, crashed head-on into a tree and caught fire. Her arms were so badly burned, they had to be amputated.

Her friends Amy Crayton and Estel Hillman have been her constant companions since the accident. They were with her at the lanes the day Vera made bowling history.

"I sit in an upright position at the foul line with a back support locked in behind me," Vera said. "I draw my legs back as Estel places the ball in front of my bare feet. I line the ball up and aim for the second arrow from the right and push the ball with my feet.

"I was shaking all over in the tenth frame, especially after the first two strikes," said the ecstatic secretary. "I still can't believe it happened."

Until her record-shattering performance, Vera's best game with her feet was a 209. Her overall average since losing her arms is a respectable 148.

Since her perfect game was bowled in practice and not in a league, it won't be officially sanctioned by the Women's International Bowling Congress.

"I could care less about the game being sanctioned," Vera said. "I know I rolled it, and so do Estel and Amy, who witnessed every ball I threw. There were a couple of guys who walked in the lanes and saw my last five strikes."

Gutsy Vera will be fitted with artificial arms and hands in two weeks.

"I'll practice with them until I get confident enough to join a league," she said. "Now, I just want to enjoy the biggest thrill

Thieves forced to wear 40-lb. collars — FOR 25 YEARS!

By RICK TRACY
Special correspondent

Two petty thieves have spent the last 25 years of their lives wearing painful, 40-lb. wooden collars locked around their necks — because they were too terrified to take them off.

Their crime? Stealing a chicken!

The heavy, 3-foot square harness was punishment inflicted by a cruel warlord, who also banished them from their village in the Cameron Highlands 100 miles north of Singapore, Malaysia, for stealing a chicken in 1968.

"Instant death was the penalty for removing the collars or returning to the village without the warlord's permission," said a police inspector.

"The warlord's word was law in the Cameron Highlands in those days."

So the two teenage chicken thieves fled in disgrace to the jungles of Malaysia where they have lived like wild animals for a quarter of a century — waiting for permission to return home.

"We lived by our wits, eating rats, snakes . . . anything to stay alive," Ngui Nyuk Ngee, now 42, told a reporter in Singapore.

"We never thought of going back to the village without permission. To return would have meant certain death. We've worn the same clothes for 25 years and haven't had a good night's sleep since the day we left the village.

"Our lives have been a living hell and it didn't have to be."

What Ngui and his friend, Chong On Lee, 44, didn't know during those horrifying 25 years is that two months after they were locked in the hideous head collars, government troops overthrew the warlords who controlled several villages in that area of Malaysia, including their tormentor.

Their families and friends searched the treacherous jungles for months to relay the good news to Ngui and Chong, but finally gave up.

"We thought they had perished in the jungle," said Chong's brother.

"As the years passed, we gave up hope of ever seeing them alive again."

Ngui and Chong might still be hiding in the wilds of Malaysia if one of the villagers had not seen them bathing in a river and told them the warlord had long since been sent to prison.

"We feel like such fools but fear can make the smartest of CHICKEN thieves Ngui Nyuk Ngee, left, and Chong On Lee were so terrified of a local warlord that they wore their wooden collars for 25 years — 24 years and 10 months longer than they actually had to!

LYING IS GOOD FOR YOU, SAYS EXPERT

Tiptoeing past touchy social encounters with a few well-chosen white lies is not a sin, an expert says — in fact, it can be good for you.

That's because white lies help people deal with situations which otherwise might be insulting, hurtful or downright dangerous, according to psychologist Dr. Terry Baver.

"White lies allow for people to deal with one another with a minimum of friction," Dr. Baver told The NEWS.

"They protect the liar from the destructive aspects of telling the truth, and protect the person who's lied to from being hurt."

Dr. Baver cautions that people should be aware of when they're lying and why, since some lies can be harmful. But if you're lying to accomplish a good end, there's no problem, she says.

"For example, if a teenager is all dressed up for his first date and doesn't look too hot but can't do anything about it, don't give him your honest opinion when he asks how he looks," Dr. Baver explained.

"Say, 'You look great,' so he'll have self-confidence and feel better about himself.

"If you express what you feel, it would be destructive," she said. "Lying is bad for you if you lie because you are afraid to confront people or because you don't wish to deal with problems," Dr. Baver said. "But honesty, too, can be bad.

"Honesty often is just an excuse for being sadistic or hostile," she said. "You could be using the truth to hurt someone who has made you angry.

"A real relationship needs honesty, of course, but to say harsh things without working them through doesn't benefit anyone.

"And we don't work things through with people we know casually."

MOM SEES SON'S PUNK HAIRCUT — & LAUGHS HERSELF TO DEATH!

Woman gasped for breath — and dropped dead

By TANYA BRODER
Special correspondent

Mother-of-two Lucille Meliete got a look at her son's new haircut — and died laughing!

The 52-year-old woman's guffaws led to a severe asthma attack, which in turn triggered a fatal heart attack, an autopsy showed. The Detroit divorcee was stone cold dead within four hours of her laughing fit.

"She was just so tickled with Buddy's new punk cut — she just thought it was hilarious," recalled the woman's 15-year-old daughter Pat.

"She was laughing and laughing and getting real red in the face.

"Then all of a sudden she had trouble getting her breath. She was gasping and kind of choking.

"We took her to the doctor and he sent her right to the emergency room. While we were there she had the heart attack and died. It was just terrible."

IN HAPPIER days: Buddy Meliete in his normal hairstyle, with loving mom Lucille and sister Pat, right.

Relatives say high school dropout Buddy feels responsible for his mother's death.

The 16-year-old mechanic's helper says if he hadn't gotten his bizarre haircut, Lucille would still be alive.

According to members of the family, Lucille was in excellent health before her death, except for occasional bouts with asthma.

"She was feeling well and she was happy with her life, so we had no reason to suspect she was in danger," says Pat. "My mom was always so good-humored and she always had a ready laugh.

"But the day she died, she laughed herself sick. I mean,

MOURNING Meliete kids, Buddy and Pat. Buddy still she took one look at Buddy and just freaked out."

Lucille had heard from her son's apartment roommates that he'd gone overboard on a new punk hairstyle and she said she was dying to get a look at it. Buddy came over to his mother's home to show her the haircut after she asked to see it.

When Buddy walked into the living room of his mom's apartment on November 15, Lucille took one look and started to chuckle, her kids recall. Then she began to roar with laughter.

"She was slapping her thigh and having a great big laugh when all of a sudden she started wheezing and coughing," Pat says. "From then on her she fell to pieces. It seems like one minute she was laughing and the next minute she was dead.

"Our only consolation is that she died happy."

INCREDIBLE! Homeless Guy Trask demonstrates for photographers how he sneaks into hospitals all over the country for free room and board.

HOMELESS MAN SNEAKS INTO HOSPITALS — WHERE HE LIVES LIKE A KING!

Grubby Guy Trask is a tattered tramp who sacks out in alleys and mooches munchies from strangers till he gets a yen for the comforts of home. Then conniving Guy sneaks into a hospital, crawls into bed — and lives like a king till they kick him out!

By JOE BERGER

Staff writer

"Most people dread going to the hospital, but to me it's paradise," the bozo bobo told reporters.

"I get to sleep on crisp, clean sheets for a change and I don't have to worry about some lowlife rapping me on the head and stealing my shoes.

"And every four or five hours, a pretty nurse brings me a hot meal with dessert and everything. What more could a fellow like me want, anyway?"

Grungy Guy, 36, has wangled his way into dozens of hospitals from Boston to Bakersfield over the past six years — and he's gotten so good at it, he's been tutoring his deadbeat buddies to play the same game.

"The fellas, they'd see me sneak off for a couple of days and come back all clean and rested, and they all wanted to know how I did it," said the crafty panhandler. "So I've been showing them all a few tricks, 'cause you can't just walk into a hospital and crawl into bed, you know.

"They'll kick you out in a minute if you don't do everything just right — but I used to work in a hospital, so I know the ropes."

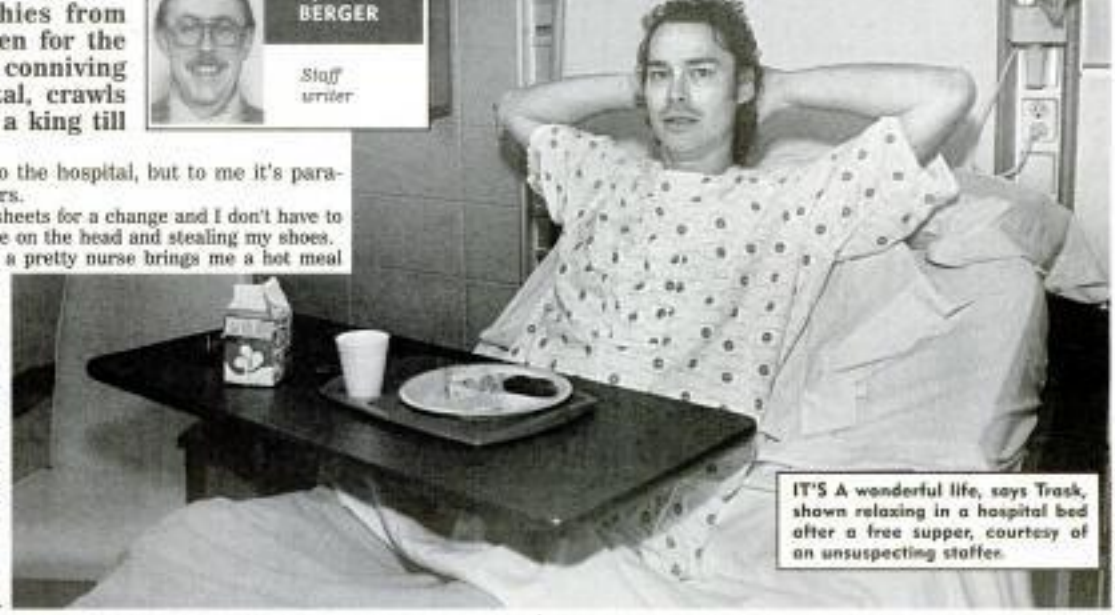
The freeloading former orderly pig heaven the day he got hit by a car in Kalamazoo, Mich., back in 1986 and wound up with a busted leg.

"They kept me in a hospital for three days and it was absolute bliss," he recalled. "It was felt clean and dry and warm and well-fed all at once."

And wily Guy has been sneaking into hotshot hospitals all over the country ever since.

"All it takes is a little common sense and a lot of gall — charts' work," the weasely wino boasted to reporters. "And once you get in, you just lie back and let them take real good care of you.

"Of course, you know they're gonna catch up with eret's to enjoy yourself and then get out while the getting's good. And even if they catch you and have you tossed in jail for a few days, that's not the end of the world, either — 'cause they've got free food in



IT'S A wonderful life, says Trask, shown relaxing in a hospital bed after a free supper, courtesy of an unsuspecting staffer.

Forget about the 'Good Old Days!'

FAMILY LIFE IS BETTER TODAY THAN IT'S EVER BEEN!

If you believe the American family is falling apart at the seams, you're all wet. It's a lot closer-knit today than it could have been in the past — even with a goody-goody family like the Waltons.

That's the reassuring findings of a survey of more than 1,500 people.

The survey concluded that the American family is alive and well after all.

"The strong ties between grown children and their parents, brothers and sisters are evident in the extraordinary amount of socializing they do," researchers said.

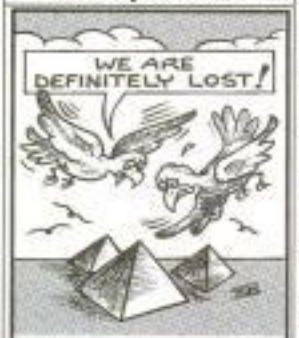
The survey debunks the idea of the "nostalgic past image" of families like the Waltons, where three generations lived happily together, labeling it "pure fiction."

A University of California psychologist said more American children know their grandparents than in the old days, and visit them more regularly today than they did in the past.

This is partly because until the early 1900s, grandparents hardly existed since the average life span was 49 years.

Because more grandparents are alive today, 73 percent of adults say their parents influence their ideas on child-rearing more than any other source, including TV, doctors, experts or friends, the survey concluded.

Other findings revealed that women with one or both parents living visit them about 62 times a year while men average 47 visits a year.



Microwaves drive pigeons batty!

Thousands of prize homing pigeons can't find their way home — and their owners say microwave ovens are to blame for the birdies' bumbling.

About 2,000 pigeons never arrived from what should have been a 12-hour France-to-Germany trip.

And since pigeons use the Earth's magnetic field to navigate, their owners fear they were foiled by millions of microwave ovens zapping up quickie din-

CIVIL WAR TRIVIA

By ROBERT CUTLER / Special correspondent

The Civil War started in Wilmer McLean's front yard and ended in his parlor. Both sides lost more soldiers to disease than to combat. And by war's end, Confederate money was inflating at a rate of 9,000 percent a year!

That's just some of the fascinating trivia found in author Rod Gragg's Civil War Quiz and Fact Book ($8.95, Harper and Row). Here's more:

● There actually were two Fort Sumters — one a military installation in South Carolina, the other a bordello in Washington, D.C.

● The war began and ended on farmer Wilmer McLean's property. The first major land battle, First Bull Run, spilled into his yard. He later bought a farm in Virginia, near Appomattox, and Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant in his parlor.

● The U.S. government shelled out a whopping $2.5 million a day to finance the war.

● When it came to exchanging prisoners, one general was worth 60 enlisted men. A lieutenant was worth four enlisted men.

● The average Confederate general stood 5 feet, 8 ½ inches tall.

● General Grant was a clerk in a leather goods shop when the war began. Seven years later, he was President of the United States.

● The bloody Battle of Cold Harbor in Virginia was named after a tavern that didn't serve hot food.

● The official pay for a Union private was $13 a month until May 1864, when it was hiked to $16 a month.

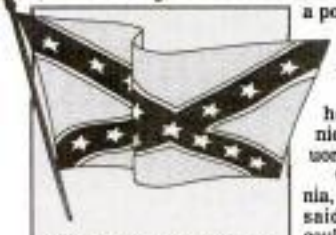
● Union doctors worried that a condition called "noxious effluvia" was harming soldiers but never figured out what to do about it. Noxious effluvia is a polite term for the odors generated by men forced to live in crowded camps without toilets.

● "Popskull" and "bust-head" were Confederate nicknames for contraband liquor.

● At the battle of Spotsylvania, Union Gen. John Sedgwick said of the enemy: "They couldn't hit an elephant at this distance." Seconds later, a Rebel sharpshooter shot him dead.

● Confederate Gen. Stonewall Jackson sucked lemons to stimulate his salivary glands. He was unique among Confederate troops because it contained two companies of Cherokee Indians.

● Union soldiers' favorite food was molasses cookies, which merchants sold six for a quarter.



STARS AND BARS: The Confederate flag was officially lowered for the last time on Nov. 6, 1865, in LOSER: Maj. Gen. Joseph Hooker was premature when he said, "The Rebel Army is now the legitimate property of the Army of the Potomac" — just before he and his forces were defeated by

USE THESE SECRET CHANTS

...TO GET LOVE, MONEY, HEALTH AND HAPPINESS!

By BEATRICE DEXTER
Correspondent

Your dreams can come true simply by chanting a few magic words that are guaranteed to bring you money, love, health and happiness!

The chants were found in the ruins of an ancient Tibetan monastery by an archeologist from Nanchang, China, in 1988.

Since then, thousands of Chinese have tried the centuries-old chants and found that they actually produce results.

CHANTS were found in Tibetan ruins by Dr. Chi Tsang-mu.

"The chants had been handed down for generations from monk to monk long before the old Tibetan monastery was abandoned in the year 1011," said the archeologist Dr. Chi Tsang-mu of the University of Kiangsi.

buried in the altar room of the mountain religious center.

"Along with the chants, we found scrolls and paintings illustrating hundreds of incidents in which the old formulas had worked miracles for the monks.

"Now we are testing them in modern times — and find-colleagues have conducted studies using 2,300 students and residents in Nanchang. An amazing 1,867 of the test group reported the ancient chants have changed their lives.

The incantations are short and easy to learn, Dr. Chi said. They must be spoken after a period of meditation to have maximum effect.

Here are the four ancient mystical chants:

§TO BRING HAPPINESS: Repeat the words To-do Si Ro An-wat Mono-ran four times. Concentrate on opening your heart to love. Chant brings true love before the year is out.

§FOR GOOD HEALTH: Repeat this chant softly: Chang Do Amo Puso Nico. It is im-days. Use a soft melodious voice and concentrate on happy thoughts as you chant. You should find your life is more joyous and fulfilling.

§TO BRING LOVE: Sit quietly in a darkened room. Whisper the words To-do Si Ro An-wat Mono-ran four times. Concentrate on opening your heart to love. Chant brings true love before the year is out.

§FOR GOOD HEALTH: Repeat this chant softly: Chang

thoughts for three full days after saying the chants. The incantation promises excellent health for a lifetime.

§FOR MONEY: First, cast out all selfish thoughts and think only of good deeds you will accomplish with your wealth. Do this for one hour and then repeat the words Kang-no-ro Ama Ni Lo Ta Wong 10 times. Stand and turn completely around once with your arms held over your head.

Now it's official — kissing DOES cause AIDS!

By SUSAN JIMISON / Staff writer

It doesn't take dirty needles, transfusions or sex to give you AIDS, a top expert says — a simple kiss will do it!

Any kiss involving an exchange of saliva puts lovers at risk if one of the two sweethearts is HIV-positive, according to Dr. Helen Singer Kaplan of the Sex Therapy and Education Program at New York Hospital.

"Saliva is an ideal environment for the AIDS virus," says Dr. Kaplan, who is also a professor at Cornell University Medical College. "In fact, the count is larger in saliva than in the blood of an HIV-positive person.

"And if the healthy person has lacerations on his inner cheeks or gums — a common occurrence — the chance is increased."

Dr. Kaplan made her shocking statements in an interview with author Howard Fast last August, but she expected that her revelations would stir up little official reaction. The Manhattan sexpert, who has worked with AIDS victims and AIDS researchers for years, thinks authorities are purposely ignoring this dangerous method of spreading the deadly virus.

"You get denial from every side," she says.

"They will say there are no reliable statistics, no scientific tests. They will tell you that doctors disagree. They will tell you that my information is invalid. But I stand by my statements."

Dr. Kaplan advises kissing with the lips closed to be absolutely safe from the AIDS virus.

CRUSH DANCING

Schoolkids' DEADLY new fad

By TANYA BRODER / Correspondent

Crazy kids in India have come up with a new party fad that is sweeping through schools and universities: A bizarre craze called "crush dancing" in which participants pile up on top of a pal's body and rock and roll until they drop.

The teenagers compete to see who can heap the most dancers on the top of an upended table lying over a buddy who is stretched out on his back. The practice has resulted in three deaths to date.

"The champion is a 17-year-old guy from New Delhi who supported 27 kids," says Ravni Ghosh, a student from Madras. "His right hip bone was broken but he lasted two minutes and 38 seconds, long enough for an entire rock song to play. The kids were dancing and screaming on top of him, but he never even grimaced in pain."

Authorities say they've tried to stamp out the bizarre practice by spreading the word among youngsters that crush dancing is dangerous.

Yet in spite of extensive coverage of tragic deaths associated with crush dancing, kids continue to indulge in the fad, often suffering permanently crippling injury in an attempt to set records.

"You're disqualified if your pelvis pops," says Ghosh, 15. "And if you have to call off the dancing because you're in pain, people think you're a wimp."

The fad is spreading to younger and younger kids, and a recent article in an Indian newspaper featured photos of kids in their early teens boogalooing on a buddy.

"We may outlaw the practice so we can discourage kids by arresting them," a New Delhi police spokesman said. "We've got to stop them before we create a generation of people who are permanently crippled by this ridiculous pastime."

NEWSPAPERS in India printed this picture of a July 1992 crush dancing party at a school in New Delhi.

Americans WEREN'T the first to land on lunar surface!

CLINTON TO PROBE FOOTPRINTS FOUND

New President wants to photos of bizarre tracks

BARE HUMAN footprints on moon are shown in this world-exclusive unretouched NASA photo, taken as astronauts walked on the lunar surface for the first time in 1969.

By KARL JENSEN
Special correspondent

UFO researchers have called on president-elect Bill Clinton to open the files on one of the most chilling space cover-ups of all time — the discovery of bare human footprints when Apollo 11 astronauts landed on the moon in 1969!

Far from brushing off their demands as previous administrations have done, Clinton has requested copies of top secret photographs and documents that NASA has hidden from the world for the past 23 years.

That's the word from astrophysicist Kang Mao-pang, who stunned the world when he obtained secret NASA photographs of the footprints in 1989 and is now heading up a group of more than 400 scientists and researchers who are now demanding that Clinton make the NASA files public and let the truth be known once and for all.

ernment has chosen to keep this matter secret for 23 long years but Bill Clinton has a golden opportunity to right the wrong after he is inaugurated later this month," Dr. Kang told reporters in Washington.

"The implications of finding human footprints on the moon are absolutely staggering," he continued, "and if Mr. Clinton is half as courageous and forthright as he claims to be, he's got to order NASA to open the files and tell us everything it knows.

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS January 12, 1993

BARE HUMAN ON MOON!

see top secret NASA taken 23 years ago!

PRESIDENT-ELECT Bill Clinton is expected to order a complete review of all NASA files pertinent to the human footprints.

ASTROPHYSICIST Kang Mao-pang wants NASA to tell all about the mystery footprints.

ca's astronauts arrived there and that somebody was doing it without a space suit," he added. "This has nothing to do with national security. People have a right to know."

There was no immediate response from Clinton but transition-team insiders privately confirmed that the president-elect has requested copies of the NASA files and will decide whether to release them by the time he is inaugurated on January 20.

As the Weekly World News previously reported, Kang's 1989 allegations stunned U.S. space officials, several of whom turned and ran when they were confronted by reporters outside NASA offices in Washington, D.C.

Other sources also declined to comment, even after they were told that the expert had official NASA photographs of 23 bare footprints that were found on the moon when U.S. astronauts landed there during the Apollo mission in the summer of 1969.

"The footprints were taken by a remote camera aboard the lunar lander and came to me from an unimpeachable NASA source," said Kang. "They were accompanied by eyes-only NASA documents that concluded, 'the footprints are definitely human and very fresh.'"

"Somebody was walking on the moon before America's astronauts arrived there — and that somebody was doing it without a space suit!"

The NASA documents were dated Aug. 3, 1969, less than two weeks after the nine-day Apollo mission ended on July 24.

Blocks of text had been obscured by NASA censors. But the statements of fact and analysis that remained made it clear that the agency suspected an extraterrestrial connection. "Common sense would tell you that a barefoot human couldn't have gotten to the moon on his own — someone or something had to take him there," explained Kang.

"It would also have been impossible for America's astronauts to have made the prints because they were wearing heavy boots and space suits.

"So the obvious conclusion is that space aliens took a barefoot human to the moon and for reasons unknown, made him walk on the lunar surface."

While awaiting Clinton's decision, Kang is appealing to "concerned scientists and individuals everywhere to keep the pressure on."

STUDY: Grouchy people live longer

It's true! The good die young — or at least younger.

That's the surprising finding of two psychologists who have studied the personalities of hundreds of elderly men and when old people are caught up in a stressful situation, the ones who are mean and nasty live longer than those who are friendly, open and cooperative.

"The good do die younger, at least among the elderly," said pert on aging. "The majority of people we studied were under the stress of relocating into a retirement community, but the death of a spouse or sickness could cause the same thing."

moving were generally ill-tempered. "These people were more angry and suspicious. They're the kind of people you wouldn't want as friends," he said.

give in when bad things happen to them," said another expert. The nasty, cranky types fight back when things go wrong — and it's better for them, he added. People who react to aging
